Bitcoin: A strategic instrument of international bank cooperation to destroy huge money(-surplus)-volumes in a sudden without someone can be held responsible for?

- European-Union politics is dying, negative interest rates, increasing social damage, increasing automatization and digitalization: Huge money volumes cover more and more problems in society, in countries and in economies.
- Rubbish spread by social networks in an unbelievable speed-dimension leading to strange perception of masses in population (radicalism; left and right).
- The world near to the cultural total exitus? Average life-expectation of 80-90 years. All burned out already in the age of 13-20 in-between?
- „Life your dream“, „I live my dream“, general phrases of a hyper-individualized society ... loosing all values and respect?
- Politicians are speechless...no, better...talking a lot, without any sense ... searching for arguments they cannot find.
- Infrastructures and markets (medical, educational, logistics, energy, consumption, tourism, real estate...) are collapsing on a daily basis. Strategy is today worth and valid one day...“today tomorrow is already yesterday“. An advertisement in the 70ties for the KODAK-corporation which has become dramatic reality.
- Investors are searching desperately for returns around the level of 2 %.
- Dramatically increasing individual leisure time, horrible demographics (Germany: 45 Mio. retired, 20(?) Mio. refugees, 20 Mio. growing up and working). That is not healthy. Discussion about 26 hours work a week with demands of unions of 6% salary increase. Tremendous burden in terms of health care and costs for it. On top the tendency of youth to search their limits in party, drugs, sports and hobbies...
- Again: parties, events, travelling, topmodels, superstars, singers...where is the baker? Where is the butcher? The guy repairing a watch or shoes? All on holiday! To issue a fax - if you do not own a fax-machine - takes you in Germany roughly 3-4 hours.

- Logistic services blocking roads due to the delivery of Amazon-goods.
- Mature markets all over the world ... still increasing speed due to the rush for margins. More and more advertising.
- In the understanding of amateur-economist there is only one way: „Up!“ Increasing prices to optimize individual welfare. Having a look at simple and basic economical school-books teaches something else: The recommendation of increasing prices and more advertising with declining margins simply ends in the opposite than intended. Money is just burned. Still ... this needs the ability to reading or listening.
- The result can easily be seen in our ghost-towns.
- Within another two generations a average human being looks like a green fat Eurasian pyknic, with a long beart, tattoos all the time talking with his iPhone, doing selfies and filling the cloud with bullshit. Here there is also just one way: „Dawn and down!“
- Then we expect finally Coca-Cola, Mc Donald's, Starbucks and the German Oktoberfest on the Galapagos, as well. Along the whole year ... for 80-90 years. Mass-uniformity in retro and vintage ... urban stylish life with intoxicating events as human credo for the future.
- Next to the big multinationals this reality is the fault of banks, money policy, insurances.
- the latest funny instrument is BITCOIN with the ability to empty the air in a balloon in a sudden without someone being responsible, since anything is virtual.
- The only reason for this instrument can be seen in the dimension to set free pressure within a sudden.
- Is this good or bad? As always, it depends ...
- Sooner or later the banks will have full access to steer the world with this instrument...they are closest ... still have the power, since they are able to access the money of their customers and exploit this for their own use ... and of course the intention to maintain their individual positions.
- There is an alternative...no bank is responsible...the computer itself causes the crash ... even better ... we could call it fate ... maybe ...virtual fate then.
- To protect population from these effects need functioning structures in society. Still, the structures are too slow in anticipating and correcting dysfunctions ... It is the fight of slow speed of humans in their communication and decision-making processes ... against the almost endless speed of our virtual world to create fate. Governments, their power and forces are not able to compete with the speed off the virtual fate.
- Result will be: Those who caused the mess are on top again ... in a first step just seemingly ... and maybe on a low level ... but they are recovering first ... that is immanent....and it starts again...this time on a even worse level.

- So we are in a situation where John Lennon was right: „Imagine....we all could live at once ...“ The question remains: Does this make sense? Is it helpful, if we are all lying in the green grass, looking in the sun, just having party?

So what can be the recommendation?

- No more European Union, countries with their currencies representing productivity of a country.
- Help others to make them helping themselves.
- Reinstall borders, passport-checks, improve power of forces (police, jurisdiction, legislation, military...).
- Improve infrastructures as already mentioned above.
- Best times on earth have been the 1980ties ... based on unstable equilibrium of political forces...we can call it respect...that bears a lot.
